HW 12 Part A Report Minh Nguyen

Are image segmentation models considered multi-task architectures, and what does "multi-task" mean in this context?

- Yes, image segmentation models can be considered multi-task architectures, when they are trained to perform segmentation alongside with other relevant tasks like object detection or classification, etc.
- Multi-task means that the model can perform multiple tasks simultaneously, which can improve model's efficiency.